G-MEN PROBE DOLE FRAUD

Cambridge Plans Suits, Prosecution

State and federal authorities took a hand today in investigating Cambridge's alleged $300,000 welfare department fraud.

At the same time, Mayor John W. Lyons of Cambridge, who revealed "wholesale chiseling" and flagrant misuse of city relief funds, moved to subject guilty persons to criminal prosecution.

The mayor and City Solicitor Richard C. Evarts of Cambridge also sought means of recovering at least some part of the hundreds of thousands of dollars reported to have been illegally doled out of the municipal treasury.

800 CASES PROBED

The mayor said 235 cases of apparent fraud had been found among 800 welfare cases investigated.

Empty houses and even vacant lots were listed as addresses of dole recipients, he charged.

Citing instances of alleged "chiseling," he told newspapermen today, one supposed welfare beneficiary was recorded as living in the home of a Cambridge minister.

"Another was supposed to live right around the corner from me," the mayor said.

"Thus far," he added, "we've found 53 seemingly non-existent relief recipients. They're just mysteriously missing.

"I also learned that certain city officials used to go around looking for 'deserving' persons and urging them to go on relief."

STATE PROBES FRAUD

While Mayor Lyons continued his own investigation, Walter V. McCarthy, state commissioner of public welfare, acted promptly to safeguard the interests of the Commonwealth.

He assigned five inspectors to begin an immediate checkup of Cambridge welfare work supported in part by state funds.

Approximately 20 per cent of welfare cash alloted Cambridge relief recipients comes from the state treasury, Commissioner McCarthy estimated.

Acting under McCarthy's direction, Inspectors Roy Merchant, Miss Mary Molowney, Miss Dorothy Johnson, Ralph Slavhive and Willett Howard proceeded at once to Cambridge and got their probe under way.

Also delving into Cambridge welfare department records were

French Troops Off To Djibouti

PARIS, Dec. 28 (AP)—A battalion of the French Army's Senegalese sharpshooters 1000 strong arrived at Marseille today en route to Djibouti to strengthen the garrison of that East African port, an objective of Italian clamor for French territory.

The soldiers moved to the seaport from camps nearby preparatory to embarking on two liners due to sail Dec. 31 for the French Somaliland capital.

They are the Sphinx, whose departure, set for today, was postponed to permit her to carry troops and the Chantilly.

Possibility of a sudden Italian attack upon French Somaliland is causing a serious concern in high French government quarters.

Paris authorities admitted the French military situation, in the event of such an attack, would be extremely difficult.

They said the Italians would be favored by heavy odds if fighting should break out in the French East African colony in view of the overwhelming Fascist military superiority in nearby areas.

FEARS COUP BY DUCE

Fears were expressed here that Premier Mussolini's tactics may be to seize Somaliland, virtually surrounded by Italian territory, in a sudden coup—thus putting France in the position of having to declare war or submit to mediation.

Meanwhile, the French press and the public were inclined to regard the Italian campaign for Djibouti as a bluff and to have confidence in France's ability to defend her colonies.

Several conservative newspapers limited their comment solely to a government communique denying reports of Italian troop

VACANT lots and abandoned houses and other spots like one above have been given as addresses by welfare recipients in Cambridge, mulcting the city of more than $300,000, it was revealed by Mayor Lyons.

Goodwin Scores Auto Risk Firm Methods

Calling Massachusetts automobile insurance methods a "dirty mess," Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, today predicted a demand for a state insurance fund "if the insurance companies do not make provisions to take care of innocent people."

At the same time, State Insurance Commissioner Frank Harrington was meeting in semi-secret session with the heads of all of the state's automobile insurance companies, both stock and mutual, along the same lines—to urge them to relax their present stiff regulations, under which thousands of persons are labeled "bad risks" and cannot get insurance policies from the bigger companies.

Simultaneously, Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Donahue issued temporary injunctions, and appointed temporary receivers for the suspended Broad Stret Mutual Casualty Insurance Company and the Canton Mutual Liability Insurance Company.

RECEIVERS NAMED

Liabilities of the Broad Street company were disclosed as $1,173,170.71 as against assets of $693,137.25 plus $25,000 guaranteed capital.

Liabilities of the Canton company were shown as $538,279.44 as against assets of $103,020.59 plus $25,000 guaranteed capital.

Attorney John T. Noonan was appointed temporary receiver of the Broad Street company, and Attorney Lafayette R. Chamberlin of the Canton company. Bonds in each instance were set at $25,000.

Petitions for the appointments of permanent receivers are to be heard January 6.

Goodwin's blast against insurance company methods was contained in a letter to the Massachusetts Rating and Inspection Bureau, Broad street, Boston, a clearing house for insurance information.

"Each year the insurance commissioner establishes sufficient rates to take care of all accidents whether from good risks or bad risks, and also provide a reasonable profit to all companies," he pointed out.

"It is the custom of most of

Pardon List Sent to Dever

Victory was won today by Attorney-General Paul A. Dever over Governor Hurley when seven petitions for paroles, and one for full pardon of a parolee, were turned over to Dever by Chairman Frank A. Brooks of the governor's council pardons committee.

Thus was Dever's demand that he be notified of pardon petitions before action on them acceded to.

The list submitted to Dever by Brooks contained the names of two murderers and four bandits now serving sentences in State Prison, a man serving time in the Essex county House of Correction, and one now out on parole and seeking a pardon.

The murderers seeking pardons under parole conditions are:

DOMINICO BENINATO, 41, sentenced March 18, 1913, from Middlesex superior court to life imprisonment for second degree murder.

ANTONIO GIANNETTI, sentenced May 14, 1912, from Essex superior court to life for second degree murder.

The armed robbers seeking freedom from state prison are:

JAMES F. BURNETT, sentenced to 20 to 40 years in Middlesex.

DANIEL ALLEN, 27, sentenced in Middlesex, May 16, 1934, to four concurrent terms of 12 to 12 years each.

ANTHONY FECUNAS, 41, sentenced in Middlesex, January 18, 1928, to 25 to 30 years.

JOHN MILLER, sentenced in Middlesex, June 9, 1926, to 25 to 30 years, after pleading guilty.

The petitioner or release from Essex County House of Correction is Harry J. Emmons, sentenced January 8, 1938.

Now on parole but seeking a full pardon is William L. Carolan, sentenced July 11, 1927, to four concurrent terms of 12 to 20 years and an additional concurrent term of 3 to 5 years.

After receiving the list, Dever said he will notify the district attorneys of the counties affected and will confer with them tomorrow morning, prior to the governor's council meeting at which the applications are expected to come up for action.

Cold Kills 2 Men In N. E.

Sweeping in from the west, a cold wave entered New England today on the crest of a high wind, taking the lives of two men on lonely Massachusetts country roads and driving the mercury well below the freezing mark.

Joseph Lamothe, 59, a Fitchburg farmhand, was found frozen to death beside the road only a mile from the outlying farm where he was employed. It is believed he collapsed last night while returning to the farm.

The temperature was 15 degrees.

While New England shivered a real cold spot was reported at Edmonton, Alta., where an official temperature of 51 below zero was recorded.

At Mount Washington, in the Berkshires, the body of an unidentified man, apparently a laborer or farmhand, was found frozen on an infrequently used dirt road.

The wind which accompanied the icy blast out of the west whipped Greater Boston. At Dorchester High School for Girls in Codman square it ripped two slabs of concrete from the cupola and sent them hurtling to the street.

One of the 200-pound pieces narrowly missed a passing automobile and both chunks buried themselves in the street.

SNOW IS ON WAY

Police roped off the area and traffic was diverted while building inspectors examined the cupola.

The cold wave, which is expected to abate tomorow, with a possibility of light snow tomorrow night, drove the mercury down to a low of 21 degrees at 7 a. m. today, from whence it began a slow but temporary climb.

The record for this date is 3 below.

This was in sharp contrast to yesterday's high reading of 49 degrees—and the contrast was felt keenly by commuters as they bowed heads and hunched shoulders against the stinging wind.

MERCURY TO DROP

Although it will be fair and colder tonight, the bugaboo of zero weather in Boston was dispelled when the weather bureau

125 Flee Blaze At 20 Below Zero

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., Dec. 28 (AP)—Fire that destroyed three frame buildings, housing two hotels and four taverns, routed about 125 persons early today in 20 degrees below zero weather.

The blaze started in the Valhalla Tavern about 2:30 a. m. and spread quickly through the Victoria and Svea Hotel buildings adjoining the tavern and located in the older section of the city.

4 MORE BRIDALS ON SKIDS

Roland L. Avery, Beach street, Wollaston, today was awarded an uncontested divorce decree in probate court at Brookline from Mrs. Ethel B. Avery, whom he married in December, 1934, and from whom he separated in April, 1935.

She put him out of the house, he said, and piled all of his clothes and belongings on the front porch. The divorce was granted on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Margaret Fava was awarded an uncontested divorce from Eugene Fava, on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. He went out with other women, she testified, and hit her when she questioned him.

Mrs. Kathleen Nickerson, Webster street, Needham, received an uncontested divorce from Chester Nickerson, Dale street, Boston, on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and neglect to support. He gave her "ugly looks," she testified, and in November, 1935, after they had been married 20 years packed up an left.

Mrs. Doris Scott, Washington street, Quincy, won an uncontested decree when she told the court her husband, Merville W., now of Haverhill, hit her on Thanksgiving Day, 1935, because she wanted to visit her mother and he wanted to go to a football game. He his her, too, in arguments over his gambling, she testified.

'Ellie' Comes Out Gliding At Gay White House Debut

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Democratic and Republican Roosevelts danced beneath the glittering chandeliers of the White House last night at Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, 18-year-old Boston niece of the First Lady, made her Washington debut.

Young relatives from Boston, New York, Oyster Bay and Washington dined at the executive mansion before the ball. Among them was Miss Sara Alden Derby, whose mother, the former Ethel Roosevelt, made her White House debut in 1908.

Quentin Roosevelt, another grandchild of President Theodore Roosevelt, also was present.

Debutantes and their escorts from many Eastern cities arrived after the dinner. In a billowing white organdie frock with hoop skirt, "Ellie" received the guests with her father, and the First Lady.

The King of Greece had sent the debutante a gown for the party, but it did not arrive in time.

PRESIDENT GREET GUESTS

The President was much in evidence, greeting all the guests from a seat near the dance floor.

Dancing continued until 3 a. m., with the orchestra playing virtually every step from the "Eleanor Glide" to the Virginia reel. Guests were served a midnight supper of scrambled eggs, sausages, chicken salad, ice cream and cake.

Eleanor was the third Roosevelt to "come out" at the Executive mansion. In 1902, it was Alice, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, destined to grow into the "Princess Alice" of later social fame, and in 1908 it was Miss Ethel Roosevelt.

The fourth White House debutante was Helen Taft, daughter of William Howard Taft.

DANCE "ELEANOR GLIDE"

Hundreds of young guests danced the "Eleanor Glide" and found it enjoyable and simple. The dance was arranged by two professional dancer friends of the First Lady in answer to her sugestion that this country should have a dance as easy to learn as England's Lambeth Walk.

Smiling and happy Eleanor, carried an old-fashioned bouquet given her by her mother, Mrs. John Cutter of Boston.

Irving Conn and his orchestra were brought from New York to play a new song, "Lovely Debutante" for her, as well as other debutante numbers—"Stay as Sweet as You Are," "Lovely to Look At," and "Just the Way you Look Tonight."

Young Roosevelt cousins in the family dinner party of 22 included Miss Derby, wearing the same white and silver dress she wore the previous night at her debut in New York.

MANY BOSTON GUESTS

Other relatives at the dinner were Eleanor's brothers, Henry Parish and Daniel Roosevelt from Boston; Miss Anne Grant, granddaughter of the President's uncle, Frederick A. Delano; Forbes Morgan, Jr., with Mrs. Morgan; Eleanor's father, Hall Roosevelt; Mrs. Sara Denalo Roosevelt; Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt of Hyde Park, the President's half sister-in-law.

The Boston guests, 60 of whom arrived on a special car yesterday, were scattered about at various dinner parties. Wellover half of Washington's 50 debutantes this season were guests at the ball as well as at dinners beforehand.

Among the girls from in or near Boston were Rosamind Higgins, Betsy Chandler, Anne Godfrey of Brookline, Emily Rand, Selene Harmon, Marietta Withington, who made her debut last Saturday night at a Tyrolean party; Nancy Lawson of Salem, Nancy Nichols of Brookline, Celia Hubbard of Cambridge, Margaret Brush, Mildred Brown and Cynthia Sortwell.

Jews Quit Danzig As Nazi Rule Nears

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Dec. 28 (AP)—Jews are emigrating from Danzig in increasing numbers in anticipation of the Free City's union with Germany, which they and Nazi leaders of Danzig consider inevitable.

Anti-Semitic laws patterned after those of Germany are being steadily adopted by the Nazi-dominated government and are spurring the Jewish exodus.

5 Guilty in Big Swindle

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 28 (AP)—A federal jury convicted five officers of the Continental Credit Corporation of Winchester, Ind., and associated firms today of using the mails to defraud in schemes which the government contended cost midwestern business houses and individuals approximately $1,200,000.

John W. Moore, Sr., Continental's president, and his son, John W. Moore, Jr., secretary-treasurer, were convicted on all 12 counts of the indictments against them. Maximum sentences of 57 years are possible in their cases.

Kenneth P. Kimball, president of the Kim-Murph Company of Lansing, Mich., and R. S. Phillips, former secretary-treasurer of the Mineral Felt Company of Toledo, O., were convicted on two counts. They can be sentenced to maximum terms of seven years.

Zona Gale Breese Rites Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Funeral services for Zona Gale Breese, Wisconsin author whose novels and plays mirrored the small town mid western scene, will be conducted tomorrow in her Portage, Wis., home. She died of pneumonia last night in the Passavant hospital here. She was 65.

Miss Gale won the Pulitzer prize in 1921 for the dramatization of her novel, "Miss Lulu Bett," her best-known work.

Heiress Debut In $50,000 Wine Fiesta

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Jitterbug music and a novel "anti-hangover" bar marked the social crowning early today of New York's No. 1 glamour girl" debutante.

In a setting of moonlit gold and white ostrich plumes, vivacious, dark-eyed Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, 17, heiress to a $5,000,000 grain fortune, led the capers as she made her formal debut to society—the tiaraed "old guard" and the cafe glitter crowd—with a $50,000 champagne fiesta at the Ritz-Carlton.

And hot and sweet, from midnight to dawn, a 25-piece orchestra swung the guthbucket strains of "Get Out of Town" and "Flat-foot Floogie"—Brenda's favorites.

1000 IN GAY FROLIC

More than 1000 members of the top-hat set, with 300 white-tie "stags" roving at bay, Rhumbaed, shagged and cut "Hot Licks" in the season's most lavish party.

The decorations, woven in a motif of gold-veined papers leaves and gold-tinted lilies, were carried out on perhaps the grandest scale of any deb party since Barbara Hutton's "valley of diamonds" debut in 1930 or Natalie Coe's 1929 bow which transformed the grand ballroom into a southern plantation.

But Brenda herself deprecated the setting.

GOTTA BE HOT

"Decorations? Oh, people don't pay atention o them anyway," she said. "Everybody here is more interested in how hot the music is."

Fifteen private detectives guarded members of America's wealthiest families—from Newport, Long Island, Boston, Philadelphia and New York—against jewel thieves.

Guests included Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart, Miss Maxwell, Mrs. Cornelius Dresselhuys, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann, Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue, Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, Mrs. Hans Spitzer, Diana Barrymore Blythe, Anthony A. Duke, Mrs. Cobina Wright, Sr., Vivi Fairchild and hundreds of others.

Guilty on 4 Counts In Hingham Ride

Earle Richards, 29, married and the father of four children, pleaded guilty before Judge Goegan in Hingham district court today to four charges, the result of a Christmas Day escapade.

Richards, police said, took a car belonging to Vernon Beale of Hingham, drove it about a mile and wound up in a ditch. He was charged with drunkenness, driving while intoxicated, operating to endanger, and unlawful appropriation of an automobile.

Judge Goegan continued the case to Jan. 6 for disposition.

Malden Man Named Major in Guard

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—The War Department announced today that the following men now are commissioned officers of the national guard:

Major Arthur W. Snow, 1170 Salem street, Malden, Mass., 101st regiment.

First Lieutenant George E. Crane, 129 Nelson street, Providence, R. I., Medical Corps, 243d Coast Artillery.

Second Lieutenant John T. Browne, 32 Mill street, Dorchester, Mass., Hq. Detachment and Combat Train, 211th Coast Artillery.

'Hoax Wife' Warned By Judge, Charges Filed

Charges against Mrs. Mary DeMarsh, Braintree "hoax" wife who allegedly threatened two women detectives with a gun, were placed on file today, in Norfolk superior court.

Judge Harold P. Williams freed Mrs. DeMarsh with a warning that sentence would be imposed on her if she ever causes trouble in Braintree.

Trial of the defendant, before a jury, was suddenly interrupted today when she announced, through counsel, that she would plead guilty to counts of simple assault on two detectives and one count of unlawful possession of a firearm.

CHARGES MODIFID

The assault charges had previously been for "assault with a dangerous weapon," but Judge Williams permitted them to be modified. He said he felt it was obvious the case was one "growing out of domestic difficulties."

Principal witnesses against Mrs. DeMarsh today was her former "husband," Thomas Hannaford, wealthy South Braintree contractor.

He won an annulment of the marriage, after a bitter court fight last June, alleging that Mrs. DeMarsh deceived him into believing he was the father of two children.

HIRED TWO DETECTIVES

On the witness stand today, Hannaford reviewed a series of incidents which allegedly occurred while Mrs. DeMarsh was holding possession of his South Braintree home, defying eviction.

He hired two private detectives, Anne Brown and Effie High of Boston, he testified.

But when he took them to South Braintree, Mrs. DeMarsh met them, gun in hand, and held them prisoner, he said.

"HOAX WIFE" IN COURT—Long-standing marital mixup involving gun play, spies, kidnaping of two detectives, a besieged mansion in Braintree, "hoax wife" Mrs. Mary Jane DeMarsh and wealthy Thomas Hannaford . . . all that again faced spotlight of Dedham court today. BRISTOL, R. I., Dec. 28—Senators, clergymen and social workers rallied today to the aid of a worried mother threatened with deportation and separation from her four children, the youngest only two weeks old.

Another Son Born To Fred Warings

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (INS)—There was another blessed event for the Fred Warings today—their third.

The orchestra leader's wife became the mother of a seven-pound 11-ounce boy in Women's Hospital.

The Warings have two other children, Dixie, four, and Fred, Jr., two. Mrs. Waring is the former Evelyn Nair, who danced with the Waring band.

Counts Lodge As '40 Candidate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Senator Capper (R.) of Kansas predicted today that a "growing trend" toward the G. O. P. would bring the party the presidency in 1940.

The veteran Kansan, back in Washington for the coming session of Congress, told reporters the November elections reflected voters' discontent with administration policies.

Asked regarding possible Republican candidates for 1940, Capper asserted that "there will be no trouble in finding a good candidate."

"We have a lot of them," he added, naming Senator Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor; Senator Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, Senator Taft (R.) of Ohio and Representative Barton (R.) of New York.

'Compact Day' New Holiday?

PROVINCETOWN, Dec. 28—Mrs. Gertrude De Wager, president of the Research Club of Provincetown, announced today she was appealing to United States Senator Walsh and Congressman Gifford to establish a new national holiday—Compact Day.

Compact Day, she said, would be observed every November 21 to commemorate the Pilgrims' signing of their famous compact at Provincetown in 1620.

Through this compact, according to Mrs. De Wager, the democratic form of government was born at Provincetown.

She also announced she planned to confer with Ralph S. Carpenter, civic leader, regarding plans for excavating the old Pilgrim cemetery toward gaining of added proof that some of the Pilgrims had remained in Provincetown.

Death of Key Coster Witness Clouds Probe

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (INS)—Death of a key witness under mysterious circumstances just as he was about to be taken into custody in the "F. Donald Coster" scandal was revealed today by federal authorities who have arrested three persons as alleged blackmailers of the suicide head of the century-old McKesson & Robbins drug firm.

Death of the man, whose name was being withheld, may conceal full ramifications of the blackmail plot against "Coster," who is believed to have paid untold thousands of dollars to keep his true identity as Philip M. Musica, a convicted swindler of pre-war days a secret.

BAY STATE LINK

Shortly after Walter H. Cragg, 57-year-old disbarred lawyer; Joseph Brandino, 61, and Mary Brandino, 37, were arrested, Assistant U. S. Attorney General Brien McMahon announced:

"There were others in the combination and further arrests are expected."

Neither of the Brandinos is an American citizen. Federal authorities accused them specifically of splitting $8000 a year to remain silent concerning the past life of "Coster."

Police say Brandino has a record which shows no disposition of an arrest on a vagrancy charge at Lawrence, Mass., on Nov. 13, 1930. His sister has no police record.

When he was unmasked as Musica, "Coster" shot himself to death, leaving federal, state and county agencies to untangle the financial affairs of McKesson & Robbins.

Although federal agents would not say whether the witness died violently or from a sudden illness, they stated his end came under circumstances sufficiently mysterious to warrant an investigation.

IN ALCOHOL BUSINESS

This witness, they disclosed, formerly was in the drug business and also had been engaged in illicit alcohol diversion—one of the means by which "Coster" accumulated the million dollars with which he purchased control of McKesson & Robbins in 1926.

Five alleged blackmailers, two of them believed to be disbarred lawyers, are being sought.

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Dec. 28 (INS)—Mrs. Carol Coster, widow of F. Donald Coster, head of the McKesson & Robbins drug firm, who committed suicide when he was exposed as an ex-convict, today was named executrix of his estate under $10,000 bond.

COSTER BLACKMAILERS?—Mary Brandino and brother, Joseph, hide faces in Manhattan police headquarters after their arrest as blackmailers of Donald Coster, who killed himself when unmasked as Philip Musica. It is charged former associates of Musica levied blackmail on him when he became president of McKesson & Robbins.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Congressional Record, which daily publishes a transcript of Senate and House proceedings, may don a new dress this winter. The committee on printing is considering placing three columns on a page instead of two, thereby saving $135,000 a year.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho said today he would support any reasonable amendment to the Wagner Labor act to provide for an "impartial tribunal" in settling business-labor disputes.

TOKYO, Dec. 28 (AP)—The finance ministry announced today that Japan had a favorable trade balance this year for the first time since 1932. Exports exceeded imports by 15,000,000 yen (about $3,500,000), the announcement said.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Lewis Gannett, 47, author and book reviewer for the New York Herald-Tribune, was in the Presbyterian Hospital today suffering from head cuts received when he was struck by a hit-and-run auto last night.

Boards to Sift Relief Cases

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt was reported today to be considering creation of non-partisan county boards to act on complaints of "politics in relief."

A well-informed person said that although details have not been completely worked out, the President might endorse such a system to meet criticism directed at WPA during the recent election campaign.

This became known at a time when the Senate campaign expenditures committee was working at top speed to get its recommendations ready for the opening of Congress next week.

The committee investigated charges that WPA funds were used to influence the results of various primary and general elections.

A person in close touch with the White House said the President had in mind appointment of men in each county in the United States to sift complaints of discrimination in the administration of relief. The groups would serve without pay.

Any relief worker who thought he had been denied equal treatment could appeal to the county board, which would pass on the justice of his case and take any appropriate action.

Kennedy's Wife Hopes To Stay

LONDON, Dec. 28 (INS)—Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, wife of the United States ambassador to London, in a telephone interview with the London Daily Express denied today that her husband is planning to leave his post.

Speaking from St. Moritz, Switzerland, where she is spending the holidays, Mrs. Kennedy expressed hope her husband would remain as ambassador for years. She added:

"We hope to stay in England for a long time, perhaps years. We like England and just love the English. I spoke to my husband by telephone on Christmas Day, but he did not mention the resignation story."

Find Jap Girl Dead In Cellar Furnace

VANCOUVER, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press)—The partly cremated body of a 16-year-old Japanese girl was found in the still-smouldering furnace of her home here, the feet jutting grotesquely out of the door.

Today a science expert of the Vancouver police department was investigating the possibility the girl, Emiko Yamada, daughter of a night foreman, might have crawled into the furnace herself and died a suicide.

Plan Air Training For 20,000 College Boys

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Army air corps officials said today the college youths trained as air pilots under plans unfolded by President Roosevelt probably would require only brief post-graduate instruction to fit them for war service.

"In an extreme emergency," they said, "the pick of those with 50 hours' flying experience might even be sent to the front lines."

"They should be as well trained as many who went to the front in 1918," a spokesman commented.

The annual training of 20,000 youths promises to multiply a number of pilots available for military service, army and navy records showed.

Long in Final Plea for Life

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 28 (INS)—Fighting to the last ditch to save the life of Howard Long, 33, Massachusetts prison farm parolee scheduled to hang tomorrow for the sex-murder of a boy, Attorney John S. Hurley today carried an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

The new appeal was based on denial of a petition yesterday by Trial Justice Oscar L. Young at Laconia.

This petition was a bill of exceptions to admission at his trial of Long's confession he killed Mark Neville, 10, of Gilford, in 1937.

Judge Young ruled the appeal was not seasonable, because it was filed too late after Long was sentenced. New Hampshire law allows a year and a day for filing such an appeal.

Hurley Ponders Bartolini Plea

More than 30,000 petitioners today awaited Governor Hurley's answer to their request that the death sentence of Oscar V. Bartolini be commuted to a life jail sentence.

Unless the chief executive acts, Bartolini will go to his death in the electric chair at State prison next Tuesday morning. Four previous reprieves have been granted the prisoner since his conviction for the murder of Grayce M. Asquith two years ago.

The final move of George E. Lourie, defense counsel, is based on the fact that John A. Lyons, wanted as a material witness in the case has never been located since the killing.

B. and M. Deficit Hits $4,844,324

Boston and Maine Railroad officials today reported a deficit of $4,844,324 for the first 11 months of 1938, compared with a $92,535 deficit for the same months in 1937.

Disclosing revenue increases in the freight and express departments, the statement explained that the deficit was enlarged by extraordinary expenses of $388,494 for flood rehabilitation.

Margaret Burr Betrothed To Ex-Dartmouth Star

Engagement of Miss Margaret Williamina Burr of Mansfield to Charles Herbert Stearns, Jr., former Dartmouth football star, was made public today.

Miss Burr, a Boston University graduate, is private secretary to the town manager of Manefield.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Burr of Mansfield announced the engagement privately at a Christmas Eve dinner at their home.

Stearns is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stearns, of Mansfield.

He was acting captain of the Dartmouth football team of 1934, was senior class vice-president at Dartmouth in 1935 and was Dartmouth varsity football line coach for two years while attending the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration.

The wedding date had not been definitely set today, but the ceremony was tentatively planned for late spring.

Nazi Scribes File Protest

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 28 (INS)—Protests lodged by German and Italian correspondents, charging Peruvian officials discriminated against them during the Pan-American Conference, today marked termination of the parley, which ended on a note of solidarity among the 21 American republics.

Dissatisfaction of the Nazi and Fascist journalists came unmistakably to light when correspondents of the German Trans-Ocean News Agency boycotted the closing session of the conference and accused Peruvian Foreign Minister Carlos Concha of a "hostile act against the German government."

The German and Italian journalists filed complaints with their ministers in Lima, asserting the Peruvian foreign office deliberately failed to invite them to a press reception given by President Oscar R. Benavides.

One German correspondent attempted to send a cable of protest to Berlin, but it was reported the Peruvian government had declined to permit his message to be sent.

CONTEMPT CHARGED

In this message the Nazi correspondent accused attaches of the Lima foreign office of treating German correspondents with "contempt."

In connection with the complaint over the President's reception, officials pointed out that it had been limited to press representatives from nations represented at the conference. There were reports, however, that several French correspondents attended.

It was believed that if the Peruvian government declined to permit the German correspondent's protest to be cabled to Berlin, the German minister would transmit it through diplomatic channels.

The parley ended with delegates of all 21 republics signing the declaration of solidarity against possible outside aggression and 129 other resolutions and declarations adopted by the conference.

ORDER AND EQUALITY

Later, at a diner given by President Benavides for the entire conference, Secretary of State Cordell Hull expressed confidence in the future of the program agreed upon.

After the dinner, most of the American delegates motored to Callao to board the liner Santa Maria, which sails today for New York. The vessel is due there January 9.

Japs' Yule Air Raids Kill 3000

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 28 (INS)—Chinese authorities told today of a terrific series of Japanese aerial bombardments, carried out with devastating effect over the Christmas holidays.

Five provincial capitals were raided and estimates of the number of Chinese killed ranged as high as 3000.

Bombs dropped on Kweilin started huge fires and destroyed the famous cinnamon forest temple, according to reports received here. Twelve persons were buried alive in a dugout on American mission property there, it was reported, and the Chinese composer, Chang-Shu, and his daughter were both killed.

MRS. ELEANOR STEARNS

"HUMAN FLYS" PATH

All the fun was taken out of the evening at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Stearns, Crawford street, Roxbury, when she discovered that five handbags had been stolen from a third-floor bedroom in the rear, police were told today.

The handbags belonged to guests of Mrs. Stearns and contained $10.60 in cash and keys and personal articles.

Police said the theft apparently was the work of a "human fly" who scaled the tier of rear piazzas to the third floor.

concentrations in Ethiopia and Eritrea, near French Somaliland.

The left-wing press, the extreme right and some centerists warned the government against capitulation to Italian demands.

Government spokesmen, meanwhile, left no doubt of Premier Daladier's determination to lead the nation to war if Italy tried to seize Djibouti.

As a symbol of French defiance the 1969-ton dispatch boat D'Iberville arrived before the Suez Canal today on its way to Djibouti from Beirut, Syria.

As another symbol of what France might do, officers of France's famed Foreign Legion formally opened a vital new military road from inner Algeria to the inland frontier of Italian Libya.

The road connects all the empire's military garrisons in the interior of Morocco and Algeria with the border.

Hitler to Gobble Ukraine Next

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON, Dec. 28—Germany will force a showdown with Poland over the Ukrainian "problem" by mid-February at the latest, usually well-informed diplomatic circles here declared today.

With the Reich pursuing a vigorous diplomatic offensive from the shores of the Baltic to the Black sea, it was felt the "solution" of the Ukrainian issue could not be delayed beyond that date.

Before that occurs, however, it is believed the world will witness the incorporation of Memel into the Reich, the increase of German domination in Danzig and the acceptance by tiny Lithuania of "peaceful co-operation" with Germany, by which Lithuania will come under German domination without even attempting resistance.

GOBBLE WITHOUT WAR?

First fears that the initial stage of Germany's march eastwards might plunge Europe into a war now are giving way to a belief among responsible diplomats that the Ukrainian issue will be "solved" without menacing the peace of western Europe so formidably as did the recent "solution" of the Sudeten German problem.

But it was nevertheless foreshadowed that the changes will in their final effect create a very big problem indeed for the western European powers—far bigger than any of the "problems" now being "solved."

Diplomatic circles agreed it now has become evident that Germany regards the recently concluded French-German no war pact as giving her a free hand in eastern Europe.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the signing of the pact coincided with the gradual crumbling of the eastern European order under German pressure.

FRANCE'S NAZI DEAL

Important French circles in London go so far as to admit the German interpretation is correct; that France has promised not to embarrass Germany's march eastward in exchange for a German promise not to furnish more than "moral" assistance to Italy's Tunisian campaign.

Thus it is anticipated that by mid-February at the latest, Poland will find herself in the hapless position of being threatened politically and militarily from the north, south and west. Germany, through domination of Memel, Danzig and Lithuania, will be able to exert tremendous pressure from the north.

Franco Troops Extend Gains

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier, Dec. 28 (AP)—Insurgent armies were reported today to be continuing their drive into Catalonia "on all fronts" along the 75-mile line between Tremp and Ribarroja, on the River Ebro.

Insurgent newspapers said that the six-day-old offensive toward Tarragona and Barcelona, on the Mediterranean, had captured more than 86 square miles of territory, at least 16 towns, scores of villages and 7000 prisoners.

Fresh gains were reported especially southeast of Lerida, the insurgent base. Granadellas, 20 miles south-southeast of Lerida and an important center on the highway and railway to Tarragona, was reported surrounded.

The government's main report of success was in holding insurgent attacks north of Tremp to no gains.

Hub Doctors Rout Death

Anemia Cure Boon to World

There are in Boston 45 anonymous immortals . . .

One may be a society woman, another a digger of ditches. A third may be a banker, the fourth a scullery maid. Their names will never be known except to two men. They will forever be unnamed and, perhaps, unsung save for here. Yet the thing they did, unknowingly, will persist as long as man lives and fights disease . . .

Because of them there is a successful treatment for pernicious anemia. Thousands have been saved, millions will be . . .

Another episode in the tremendous life-and-death drama of Boston's own City Hospital . . .

By GEORGE W. CLARKE

Copyright, 1938, by the Boston Evening American

It used to be that if you had pernicious anemia you died . . . and the dying wasn't easy.

You had vague, untraceable indigestion. Your tongue became red and smooth. Your skin gradually turned to grapefruit yellow, and you began to have symptoms of heart disease — shortness of breath, and circulatory disturbances.

Sometimes you got better for a while but inevitably you relapsed once more. Then, gradually, your kidneys refused to function. You became paralyzed.

One day they put the white screens around you in the hospital —because you'd probably be in a hospital by now—and people would tiptoe by, whispering.

You wouldn't know the end came, because you would be in a coma . . .

And one-third of you—using the "you" collectively—would be additionally plagued by neurological disturbances, with numbness of the legs and arms, and certain psychiatric manifestations . . . You may have been unhappy, morose—and didn't care whether you lived or died.

Incidentally, you may have inherited your condition. Your eyes were probably blue, your hair prematurely gray, and you probably had a wide angle of the jaw . . .

But all the suffering and death seems ended now.

NORMAL LIFE POSSIBLE

It can be here stated with a reasonable degree of certainty that if you are now afflicted with pernicious anemia you can live out a normal, useful life with no greater inconvenience than a cheap, easily administered hypodermic injection once every week or two.

And that, following the announcement that the pneumonia death rate has been and can continuously be cut in half, is Boston's second Christmas gift to the world . . .

As in the first, the centers for study which led to this tremendously important contribution to the science of making people well are the Thorndike Memorial laboratory of Boston City Hospital and the Harvard Medical School.

Out of the study, incidentally, came a Nobel prize for two Bostonians, Drs. George Richards Minot, director of the Thorndike Laboratory since 1928, and William Parry Murphy, and for Dr. George Hoyt Whipple, of Rochester, N. Y.

Carrying on the work now, and responsible for some of the more recent developments, which will be explained later, is Dr. William B. Castle.

The first description of pernicious anemia was made by Addison in the 1840's. Thereafter for many years belief persisted that pernicious anemia was an infection, an invasion of the blood stream by toxins from intestinal bacteria which destroyed red blood corpuscles, and caused the victim to waste away into death.

IN RIGHT DIRECTION

Examination disclosed certain and unique conditions—a degeneration in the stomach, and an absence in the stomach of hydrochloric acid.

The absence of stomach acids became important later as a means of diagnosis.

It was in 1920 when, strangely, two men began a series of studies which inevitably led to a combination of effort. Doctor Whipple began a series of experiments at Rochester on dogs, and Doctor Minot, in Boston, noted in private practice that some of his pernicious anemia patients had very strange and pernickety habits of eating.

That Doctor Minot was himself ill from diabetes, and therefore "diet conscious," may have led him on in his investigations.

Doctor Whipple's experiments on dogs approximated perfection in their painstaking attention to detail, from the extremely astute methods of observation and the illuminating and literal manner in which they were reported.

BASIS IS ESTABLISHED

By reducing dogs to an anemic state by the gradual taking of blood from them, Doctor Whipple was able to establish a basis by which he could determine what foods most rapidly and effectively replenished the blood stream with red corpuscles.

He tried beef muscle—steak in medical terms—vegetables, fish, all manner of foods, and finally, he determined that liver was good. However, none, not even Doctor Whipple himself believed at this time that these foods would be useful in treating pernicious anemia.

It is necessary to make a little excursion into man's interior here so that understanding may be more complete.

Red blood corpuscles are the purveyors of life giving oxygen throughout the body.

Where, in the pneumonia story, first of this series, it was shown that while blood corpuscles are the policemen against infection, the red cells are the workers.

They are manufactured in the marrow of the body's bony structure, and are sent from there into the blood stream to do their work. When pernicious anemia is present —either because of a bodily deficiency, a deficiency in diet, or both—they are, apparently, not completely matured, and fail to get out into the blood stream from the factories in the bones.

The failure of the red blood cells in the bone marrow to grow up and enter the circulation, incidentally, was pretty thoroughly demonstrated by Dr. Francis Peabody, first director of the Thorndike Memorial laboratory, who was succeeded by Doctor Minot. Doctor Peabody made his observations on patients in the Boston City Hospital.

MICROSCOPE USED

The microscopic picture of normal circulating red cells, incidentally, shows them as small, and with plenty of hemoglobin in them. Those of a victim of anemia are large, fewer, and carry an excessive content of hemoglobin. Hemoglobin is what gives the blood its red color and carries the oxygen from the lungs to the tissues.

Let us now consider the 45 immortals, who don't know, perhaps, of their immortality.

Doctor Minot and many others were interested in Doctor Whipple's experiments. Out of that interest came, inevitably, an interest in liver and its results as a diet.

Doctor Minot, who had wondered about diets, however, sensed results, knew—perhaps instinctively—that liver was effective, thought he saw definite results in one or two patients. He communicated this growing belief to Dr. Murphy, friend and colleague, and together they plunged enthusiastically into a search which was to put them in the spotlight of the world's attention.

FIND NEW LIFE

Within a year the first inkling to the medical world came with publication of their paper which related what had happened to the immortal 45—the 45 who then lived but would have been dead without liver.

Within a week after starting to eat a half a pound of liver a day each of these yellowish, pallid ghosts felt new life. Color began to come to their cheeks as new blood cells poured from the bone marrow into the circulation.

After two months the blood was like that of a normal person.

Effective treatment at first, required about three-quarters of a pound of liver a day. Patients, obviously, would hardly relish, and might not continue to tolerate such a diet. Their first effort was to obtain concentrates of liver.

With Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, of the Department of Physical Chemistry of the Harvard Medical School, chemical dissection of pig and beef liver was begun.

Their first success was a liver broth, a yellow liquid, palatable to the taste and freed by beating of the bulk of liver proteins or solids.

This they found effective, but the solid residue was useless.

They then mixed the broth with alcohol to obtain a further precipitation. More solid residue was left, and it, too, was useless, but the liquid after the alcohol was evaporated was effective. It was unpalatable, however, so they tried yet again, this time with a 95 per cent alcohol solution. Again a residue was left, but this time, strangely, the values were reversed —the residue was effective, the liquid useless. That residue in powder form is what is now known as liver extract, the basis for all anemia cures.

That thousands now live normally is due to the unwilling cooperation of a few score alley cats . . . Hail to them!

the companies to wish to take only the good risks, thereby forcing the bad risks into what has become a sort of scavenger company or companies, which year after year blow up and cheat thousands of person who are injured, and thousands of innocent owners of automobiles.

"Your insurance companies wink at this procedure because it means more profit in your pockets.

"You have no right to say that you don't want to insure people who get into accidents, because if there were no accidents there would be no need for insurance.

"Unless I am greatly mistaken, if the two companies which have now been suspended do not resume, some other scavenger company will be permitted to come in and take the risk which you did not want, but which the insurance commissioner has provided for in the rates.

"In other words, all the money that the injured people and the owners of automobiles who have to insure twice are cheated out of goes into your pockets, and it is about time for a change in this situation.

"There are now at least 30,000 people who want to get insurance and get their cars onto the road, and I think it is the duty of your companies to take them, because you are getting paid for taking them.

"Your premiums are large enough to provide for taking them, as is evident by the increasing assets of most of your companies and the dividends that some of the mutuals are paying each year.

"If the insurance companies do not make provisions to take care of these innocent people I think they will find, before long, that they will be faced by an insistent demand for a stat[illegible] fund which is really the only solution to this whole dirty mess."

They will, however, have to be insured with other companies or their registrations will [illegible] cancelled.

Chaplin Wants Paulette Goddard for 'The Dictator' Role

Awaits Selznick Decision On Scarlett Selection

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28 — Jock Whitney has gone to New York to see Selznick about the part of Miss Atlanta in "Gone With the Wind." Whitney wants Selznick to make a decision on the part before he leaves for Europe. Selznick has been unable to decide whether to cast Miss Atlanta with a newcomer or a well-known actress.

Selznick has been impressed with Joan Bennett and Richard Greene, but experts who know what they want say neither is right for the part. Selznick has been unable to find a girl who has the beauty, charm and sex appeal that Miss Atlanta should have. Snapshots of Hollywood

You can't imagine how Paulette Goddard was to see Jane Lang when he left Peggy with her divorced groom, Victor Orsatti. Maybe it was the Christmas spirit. Hedy Lamarr with Robert Taylor at a night spot was another two-some that caused chatter. Fay Wray came in at the wee small hours on her way home from the Marina Day Arthur Hornblow New Yorker soiree. Grand that Fay is back again to go Hollywood.

Dorothy Lamour with Rudy Vallee, Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor were spied in at the Darryl Zanuck party for a lot of Christmas cheer. Carole Lombard spent her Christmas in bed trying to get rid of a bad case of flu. Mrs. Clark Gable, Ria Langham, Alice Faye and Tony Martin all get together for New Year's Eve at Ann Sheridan's afterward for supper. Going to visit friends before reports for work in Hollywood. That's all for today. See you tomorrow.

New Copley Play Entertaining

Based on the escapades of the Kelly sisters and their mother, a vaudeville team of the '90's, "Stepmother" came down to the Copley last night.

It came to us at the Copley Theatre as the latest in the production of the Federal Theatre.

"A Mass Entertainment" seemed somewhat amiss to local taste as conducted by a happy lot of actors and actresses who showed a genuine liking to be in the presence of guests.

It does seem as if this type of entertainment would be enjoyed best from the front row, after the fashion of Romeo and Juliet as a balcony affair of vegetable.

The story is concerned with a good deal of fun that kept the Copley audience in a very good spirit and with the singing and dancing of the Eight girls.

Mr. Lloyd Morgan, the author of the show, offered to straighten it out a bit as far as a tightening to get it started. And there are times when it seems he is just a little bit saving himself for the end performance. It's all pretty much to the layer cake.

A specialty by Wynn and Frake. They are Fall Guy Mack for their singing and the veterans Lou Scott Sheehan and Arthur Peary who probably had something to do with finding the Federal Theatre.

"A Mass Entertainment" is a good effort on, and work with a lot of it.

It lives in front of your face and we wish it well. J. C.

The Editor Says:

The New Deal Administration is seriously disturbed by the failure of its many policies to bring about recovery and prosperity.

It has failed to follow every sensible reflationary move with its real measure, OFFSET BY HIGHER TAXATION which is inflationary.

The New Deal Administration has not seemed able to comprehend that taxation is DEFLATIONARY and disastrous to [illegible].

It has attempted monetary adjustments which in themselves might bring about helpful inflation, but has counteracted them with new taxes which DEFLATE INDUSTRY and DEFLATE EMPLOYMENT.

It has spent billions for relief and public works and for other [illegible] and has piled upon industry [illegible] taxes which DEFLATE and thus have prevented [illegible] and [illegible].

It has had a little recovery due to reflation, and has suffered a severe setback of RECESSION due to taxation.

The New Deal has failed to bring about prosperity by reflation, because it TAXES THE PROSPERITY OUT OF REFLATION.

It taxes [illegible] and initiative out of business.

It taxes [illegible] and lays envelopes and taxes people out of jobs.

It puts the brakes of the industrial system the accelerator of [illegible] and then puts on the BRAKES OF TAXATION.

It [illegible] and the machine is STALLED.

It [illegible] wages and taxes on jobs and by taxes on [illegible] from which the people derive [illegible].

The New Deal, despite harmstringing taxation, has offered [illegible] for American recovery the New Deal. All [illegible].

For [illegible] we must LIFT THE BLIGHTING BURDEN OF TAXATION.

A RECORD SUCCESS was the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund, thanks to the generosity of [illegible] whose liberality made possible the collection of nearly $21,000.

Of [illegible] cannot be measured by monetary standards.

Properly to appreciate it one must realize that more than FORTY ODD THOUSAND men, women and children shared the [illegible] distributed throughout Greater Boston.

To [illegible] became real to a large part of our population [illegible] would have known only sorrow and privation on [illegible].

We [illegible] thank the thousands who donated or [illegible] to the many organizations, sports [illegible] managements, business houses, [illegible] and others who assisted the Basket Fund [illegible].

We [illegible] in the consolation of knowing that the gratitude and prayers of [illegible] they cheered will reward and repay them [illegible] New Year far beyond the power of mere words.

THEY KEPT FAITH! We refer to the ninety-six boys whom Middlesex County Training School permitted to go home to their families for the holiday week-end. Every one returned [illegible] on the [illegible]. None tried to escape.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

A QUEER THING has been happening to a lot of us lately . . . We seem to have slumped [illegible] and we haven't any real reason for it.

We're well people, all set financially, to enjoy our good health. Business is picking up. We're not as worried by fears. We'll be able to send the youngsters through [illegible] It looks as if things are going to be the same.

All of which, you think, would spell happiness. YET IT DOESN'T! There's something wrong, somewhere. We can't quite put our finger on it but it's there. And other people notice it. A remark on how we've changed. It's true. We have. Even dating, it's a relief to be [illegible] we could feel as low as this.

But lately, the old pep's gone. Life just isn't fun any more. People don't seem as friendly. Perhaps that's our fault. Such is we don't feel as friendly, ourselves. We're always discovering little faults and things we didn't notice in [illegible] suspicious, cynical, sick of everything.

WHAT'S WRONG? Darned if we know! We change diets . . . take little trips . . . buy some new clothes but nothing doing. We're still sunk. So we take it out in [illegible] saying that 'life begins at forty' and sit around, waiting for someone thing to happen . . . some miracle that will restore our old faith and enthusiasm. But the miracle doesn't arrive. And it never will, until we realize one vital fact. Namely FAITH AND ENTHUSIASM DON'T "JUST HAPPEN" NOR CAN THEY BE ACQUIRED FROM ANY OUTSIDE SOURCE. THEY ARE "INSIDE JOBS" WHICH WE MUST PERSONALLY WORK AT OR FEEL.

You can't feel faith or friendliness as some get a sucker. You must MAKE them by your own attitude.

There's a certain amount of spontaneous trust and delight which accompany healthy youth. But as soon as we enter adult life, we must BUILD OUR OWN ATTITUDES. Then Faith and Enthusiasm are no longer automatic; they are the result of DELIBERATE CHOICE.

WE ALL face the jumbled makings of Tragedy or Happiness. Out of those makings each man selects his own destiny, not in one momentous decision but by his countless small, seemingly trivial thoughts and acts. Nothing "just happens" [illegible] or luck. Whether we win a success or a smile IT'S ALWAYS THE RESULT OF OUR OWN WILL.

That's why so many of us managed to stay keyed and happy in spite of the depression yet have slumped lately. We knew we HAD to be friendly and optimistic during the hard times—or we'd be licked. So we CHOSE cheerfulness . . . we DECIDED to see the better side of people and problems. But now the painful pressure has passed . . . we've stopped struggling.

AND WE'RE PICKING OUT OURSELVES A PAIN IN THE NECK!

You don't believe it? Just watch yourself for one day . . . check your reaction to every person or proposition you face. Write down your own attitude—honestly. YOU'LL BE SURPRISED!

BOSTON EVENING CLINIC SERVICE A HOBBY WITH THESE VOLUNTEERS
Total of 110,000 Patients Treated In Its 11 Years of Existence.

Girl About Town

by Marguerite Downey

IF YOU FEEL that you swallowed a ten-pound turkey whole and that your hat is two sizes too small you have many a fellow sufferer.

There's a twenty per cent increase in gastric ailments after the holiday, according to officials of the Boston Evening Clinic. And the clinic knows whereof it speaks having treated 110,000 patients in its eleven years of existence.

Most of the clients come from the low-salaried class of gallant working folk seeking medical treatment after working hours. Their small fees amount to only one-fourth of the money needed. The rest is raised by public subscription.

Of the thirty persons employed at the clinic, 23 of them are highly-trained volunteers. Of the seven receiving salaries, two are dollar-a-year men, the medical doctor in charge of the laboratory and the pharmacist. With the exception of the executive director, the payroll boasts no salary higher than seven a week. It's a personnel of thirty highly-trained technicians whose hobby is the most praiseworthy in the world—helping their fellow man.

SEVEN THOUSAND electric bulbs are being used to illuminate the Christmas display on the grounds of St. Francis Seminary in West Andover. Thousands are attracted to it annually anxious to catch the true meaning of the Christmas season.

Here the Nativity scene and the surrounding Bethlehem countryside are reproduced—a birdseye view of the historic event, perfect to the most minute detail.

For the past seven years, the Franciscan fathers have created it carrying on a tradition established seven centuries ago by their founder, St. Francis of Assisi.

WE MAY POKE the "Mauve Decade" with a finger of scorn but to that era we can be grateful for the hospitable habit of calling on New Year's Day. The men went abroad, the women stayed at home to receive her husband's friends.

From that custom sprang the eggnog and an unusual drink called black velvet. It was half champagne and half porter, dished up ice cold. Sounds a bit insidious for the times, but remember it was the men who went calling not the women.

TODAY'S WAGER: This year's Academy Awards will go to Spencer Tracy, Bette Davis, and one of the following pictures: "You Can't Take It With You," "The Citadel," or "Boys Town."

HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD: Anita Louise and Buddy Adler are taking up where they left off in the romance sweepstakes . . . Isa Miranda, who was unhappy when she was replaced by Claudette Colbert in "Zaza," is a big click in "Hotel Imperial" . . . John McClain and Herbert Marshall are a new Damon and Pythias combination.

WILLIAM POWELL has fully recovered at last from the illness that has dogged him since the death of Jean Harlow . . . Ruby Keeler's kid sister is dancing in a Hollywood night club . . . Wendy Barrie was released from MGM and and signed by RKO on the same day that Frances Meier, released by RKO, was contracted by MGM . . . Rudy Vallee, who used to boast that he never would have a personal press agent, has hired one to sell himself as a romantic Romeo. He's trying for a picture contract . . . Broderick Crawford is giving Rita Johnson a diamond bracelet with an identification tag reading, "Please return me to my sweetheart, Brod Crawford"—or words to that effect.

TALK AROUND TOWN: A group of local business men were planning to lease the Leviathan at $25,000 a month, anchor it as near as possible to the World's Fair scene, and run launches out to it. They decided to equip one end of it for tourists, one end as a swanky and expensive night club for rich patrons. But Chicago racketeers got wind of the idea, put in a higher bid, and had the deal set when the State Department stepped in and quashed the whole idea.

POLICE COMMISSIONER VALENTINE issued orders this year that policemen were not allowed to accept Christmas gifts. But one of the town's oldest and most respected banks called one of the local precincts, sent for every cop of the station house, and presented them all with a "Merry Christmas" and an envelope containing greenbacks . . . The British film "Sixty Glorious Years," which turkied at the Music Hall, has had its title changed to "The Lady of Windsor" and the producers are holding it for general release until the King and Queen of England arrive here . . . Malcolm Atterbury son of the late railroad tycoon, and definitely of the captious set has forsaken his financial career to go to the big "trade shows" . . . The first part he was offered was one in which he was to play a Communist editor!

MR. ROOSEVELT could have tossed them to the wolves, and been himself sadly torn. He could have kicked them into outer darkness—and admitted personal error, which he never does. Or he could have done what he did do, and snatched them and himself, out of danger.

But this required something more than absolute assurance of WPA reform without seeming to admit the need of it. There was one sure-fire way to do that. The U. S. Army Engineer Corps has handled Federal public works for a century with no charge of graft, or political monkey-business.

The detail of U. S. Army Engineer, Colonel Harrington, to run WPA taken with Mr. Hopkins' gentle uplift and the smothering of Aubrey Williams in the "Youth Administration" was the cleverest single piece of political work of the greatest master of political [illegible]

Notre Dame Frolic Aids Scholarship Fund

Chalk up another successful venture to the alumnae of Notre Dame who danced in the Yuletide season last night at their annual frolic in the Balinese Room of the Somerset, the event aiding the group's scholarship fund.

The party was a credit to Ivy Hennebury's management who accompanied by Edward Gilgun surrendered her interest in dancing to ticket-taking. Kay was smartly attired in soft blue tissue lame.

Alumnae president, Helen Callahan, chose a black and white dinner frock effectively ashed in bright red, while Louise Kelly, another prominent member of the alumnae, added red carnations as a colorful note with her black velvet frock.

Helen Louise Murphy, gardenia, topping her peacock blue satin, danced about with her escort while Helen McCarthy, her white lace jacket frock topped by a sage, did a strenuous bit of La [illegible] with Eddie Barry of Cambridge.

States Clamping Down on Hasty Marriages

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

When Elkton, Maryland, the country's leading town concerned the business of speeding down couples intent on marriage, there was weeping and wailing from the clergymen whose front lawns bore yard wide signs stating that marriages could be performed within.

The Reverend C. M. Cupp one of the leaders of the marrying champions had performed over five hundred marriages in one month - is quoted as saying "This is an awful thing the voters have done the state is losing $25,000 in revenue.

Other clergymen who conduct marital marathons are equally aroused but there won't space to quote them.

Elkton held the record for marrying in haste after the District of Columbia put across its 72 hour marriage law last year. The trade rushed to Boston where a scurry per sons sped in cars to have the matrimonial knot tied before they changed their mind.

The dashing marriage business then turned a wishful eye on Alexandria Va. as being the nearest place which demanded no two day residential requirement. But Alexandria didn't want this new business. With pride it tells you that George and Martha Washington stopped there.

Martha Washington also bought there her "taffety" and satin" from which her full skirted evening dresses were fashioned and also if you please after the White House was situated in Philadelphia. Why should Alexandria be denounced with elopements.

Teacup rattle, as the Colonial Dames get together and discuss how they can avoid the scandal of people rushing over from Washington D. C. that new town just across the Potomac—and profaning their ancient city with elopements.

Why these ladies ask should the most aristocratic town in the United States lose over Elkton's hellish shelter marriages? Just because they've never thought it necessary to require ladies and gentlemen to take out a 72 hour license before the ceremony is performed.

Knit a Cute Cardigan

NOW THAT all the smartest, simplest sports frocks are being topped by pretty, fuzzy sweaters you can't own too wide a range of them in style and color . . . and that goes whether you're going to spend the winter in Nassau or the White Mountains. The good old sweater and skirt combination is an eternal favorite, but much newer looking is this use of classic cardigans with simple frocks. It's particularly nice with kilt-pleated skirts or the dirndl type, and is much in the Palm Beach fashion picture worn that way. You'll like this cardigan for the different looking effect of knit and purl stitches. Note how cleverly it is nipped in at the waistline. You may have a set of knitting directions by writing to Anice Brink, Fashion Editor, Boston American, and inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's a bit unusual to find at this [illegible] reasonable buy" in a favorite sophisticated tissue cream. But that's just what we've discovered. A big drum of a jar that is regularly almost four dollars is going on sale this week for two!

We happen to know the virtues of this tissue cream as we know the alphabet . . . for in it go rare herbal oils used in salon treatments which when they were first devised in Philadelphia, had countless hundreds wearing women of beautiful resources trekking down just for the one purpose of having them.

If you who have dry skin prone to wrinkling and lines will use this generously every night (even though down in your heart you know you'll have your new jar) you'll find that gaiety has left a sparkle in your eye, exhilaration in your manner and step . . . and smoothness in places that had even more than a suspicion of roughness.

HIPS, HIPS, AWAY! by Carol Fink

Calory 'Magic' Told by Dieter

CAROL WANTS TO CELEBRATE—"I registered a heartening loss of weight this morning. I've lost 8¼ pounds in eight days. I feel like celebrating with a couple of cream puffs. At top, dietitian reminds Carol "to be sure and have one glass of skimmed milk and that one vital egg a day." She brought Carol in four pages of typed instructions.

CHAPTER IX

The dietitian is a magician. I started on the 500-calorie diet before supper yesterday, and have had three meals totaling that count today, and I can't really see any difference in them. Except that I was given half a pear instead of a whole one, and the servings of meat seem just a bit smaller. I am taking an ABD capsule daily to supplement the diet.

[illegible]

'TWAS SO SUDDEN

"I can stand the dieting," he told me, "but it was awful being cut off liquor so suddenly. After I'd suffered all kinds of heebie-jeebies for the first week, I told him I'd have to give it up unless he allowed me a few drinks every day. Gosh, I've been a drinking man nearly all my life.

"The doctor said 'Why sure Joe, you can have a couple of drinks a day. Nothing but pain whiskey, though, with water.'

"Well, I said to him: 'What did you think I wanted, Doc? 'A Pink Lady'?"

KIT CARSON---Avenger! by EVELYN WELLS

Indian Maiden Saves Kit Carson's Life

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

In the spring of 1829, Kit Carson, then 19, first rode with a party of trappers from Taos, New Mexico, into California in search of beaver fur riches. Fighting the Apache, harried by Mexican authorities, ambushed by the Mojave redskins, adding always to their store of thick pelts the party reached Los Angeles before they turned back toward the dark-eyed women and fiery "Taos lightning" they had left behind.

In the fall of 1830, Kit rode again with a band of trappers, who followed what would later be the Oregon trail. Snow—and Blackfeet—halted them in the region later to be part of Wyoming. There Kit first caught sight of the beautiful maid, Pine Needle, daughter of Chief Red Bear, destined to die by Kit's hand. When he, the young scout met Pine Needle he saw that her eyes were blue and her skin pale gold, but . . . fiery hate blazed from those eyes, hate for the white man who had slain her father.

A few weeks later, Kit had to ride against the people of the maid he had already grown to love.

NOW CONTINUE:

CHAPTER EIGHT

The Chief told Kit Karson: "We will smoke the peace pipe together. We did not know the horses belonged to white men. We took them, we thought from our enemies the Snakes. We would not rob white men . . ."

So he protested over and over, Indian fashion, while 50 warriors alternated with the 30 trappers in one great circle around the largest fire. Behind them massed the other Blackfeet braves. Kit at the Chief's right hand lifted the carved and painted calumet to his lips in the ancient rite of peace.

But his gaze was fixed on the girl whose eyes were blue in her golden face, whose body was faunlike in the dress of fringed white doeskin. Pine Needle stood apart from the other whispering women as if she were not one of them.

[illegible] It would not do to reveal suspicion. When the peace pipe came around again, Kit accepted it from the dark hand of the Chief and spoke casually

"When may we have our horses, oh red brother? When may we have the 18 fine horses your warriors took by mistake from our corral? The ride back to the rendezvous is long and my men are tired."

The Chief spoke guttural words. Four braves left the outer circle to round up the five horses by leading them. Kit pretending not to watch, saw [illegible] and [illegible] the girl. Pine Needle [illegible] the women used [illegible] the others. The trappers' 18 horses were led to [illegible]

"Here are your fine horses," said the Chief, blandly waving. His full [illegible]ed. An Indian loves a practical joke. And Kit saw that every redskin's weapon was close at hand [illegible] reached for his own.

[illegible] it was fun for it. He lost [illegible] and thought of the girl in the [illegible]ous fighting that followed. Over the snow-patched ground, between rocks and clumps of sagebrush all white men fought for their lives. Trapper Markland's gun [illegible] Kit was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

1939 Outlook Appears to Be Bright

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Most professional followers of business activity are beginning to view the relationship between the final weeks of 1938 and the early weeks of 1939 with the important parallels in 1936-37.

The similarity of index action now for September-December in 1938 and 1936 has been noted here before and if it is continued a little the next few weeks professional observers feel it is fair to assume that the good things of the early period are in a fair way to be repeated.

At the same time there is a good deal of interest in the extent of present activity to cross over of January 1937.

We will be satisfied with a light extension. And that seems to be the way to understand it. If such proves to be the case, as going to be a very short period of business reaction followed by an immediate rise which will not be with eight-two week interruptions until the middle of May.

Now that may sound as though we are asking for too much. In fact as though a run-away market is expected the experience of 1937.

That is not the case because of the difference in stock ... was a margin of about 11 index points in the two year comparison of the activity index as compiled by the Administrative and Research Corp and we regard this as a safety margin which will permit a moderately steady upturn.

The stock market did not start the final week of the year in anticipated fashion. Many looked for an auspicious finish by equities and consequently feel somewhat cheated. However, they did not look at the news very carefully, else they would have expected just about what happened.

Politics barged its way into the picture again in the shape of political appointments and rather will talk of relief stoppage. The international scene darkened as events in Africa took a critical turn. And finally a sharp drop in steel chilled sentiment not a little.

Of all these things the foreign war threat is the most feared. It could upset all calculations. Other than that the market did well in the face of depressing news. Should it encounter support shortly new highs for the rally should be witnessed before the advent of 1939.

Chrysler Head Sees Caution '39 Keynote

DETROIT, Dec. 28 (AP)—Cautious budget ... appointed to be the keynote for next year's business outlook, K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler Corp said in a statement today.

"Judging from encouraging public response to the automobile industry's 1939 models and the velocity of turnover of new cars, optimism tempered with caution is justified in any attempt at appraisal of prospects for the new year," he asserted.

Monopoly Idea Inflation Seen

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (INS)—The contemporary effort of government at Washington in the role of Diogenes, searching not for an honest man but for monopoly, may create in the public mind an inflated concept of the bonanza aspects of monopoly.

The current inquiry by the temporary national economic committee itself may create the impression among the unthinking that the sure road to fortune is to climb aboard the band wagon of monopoly.

Yet even simon pure monopolies are restricted in profit making by economic realities, such as the purchasing power of their customers and the competition among different commodities and services for the consumer's dollar.

If the monopolist becomes complacent and neglects to keep apace of the parade of progress through perpetually lowering costs he is likely to find himself crowded out.

OTHER COMPETITIVE FACTORS

Even what the theorist regards as a "natural monopoly" is not immune to the competition of new ideas, better methods and substitute products and services.

The electric light and power company, operating under an exclusive charter of the legislature is regarded as a pure natural monopoly. But even that firm finds the restriction on rates placed by the regulatory body, there are other competitive factors at work.

If rates are too high, there is encouragement to industrial people, for example, to generate their own power through use of the Diesel engine or other devices.

Railroad management long decayed under the optimistic illusion that it enjoyed a monopoly. Even roads, without direct competition of other steam carriers, soon found that they were subject to competition from other agencies of transportation, including buses, trucks, private automobiles, boats, air planes and even pipe lines.

CONTROL OF SUPPLY

Theorists, however, note that if you control the supply of raw materials, such as aluminum, you are sitting pretty.

Maybe so, but the dominant aluminum company had the business judgment to develop through improving technology, lowering the price of its products and through raising wages.

The London Economist in the naive spirit of fact finding recently undertook to discover whether monopoly constituted a good investment. It found in general that the "monopoly utilities enjoyed paid substantially lower dividends than ordinary established non-monopolistic commercial companies."

Austen Lake:

Smythe and Ross In Brother Act

SOMETHING WAS MISSING AT THE BOSTON Garden last night—something vital and essential. It wasn't that the Bruins and the Maple Leafs failed to club, gang and gouge each other a full, conscientious 60-minutes' worth. It wasn't that the crowd slumped below its usual hysterical standard. Nor that Frankie Brimsek, the cum laude goalie, didn't kick out his quota of rubber from the Boston fishnets.

AUSTEN LAKE

It was simply that a malignant case of tolerance reigned on the rival benches where those old blood feudists, Col. Connie Smythe and Uncle Arthur Ross, refrained from more than mild, mutual epilepsies. True! They clawed at the air, ground down their back teeth and invoked the angels. But they didn't tear out handfuls of hair, or fumble over the sideboards or fumble for each other's wind pipes.

Feud? Fish and Tush! Mellowing age cooling emotion and charity have worked their wonders. Only the ashes of their original animosity are left.

Of the two the [illegible] McCarthy gent who manages the Leafs had the most fun. He sits, lunges the dashboards with his knuckles, [illegible] his hair out of his pants and screams like a fire engine. But Ross just sat quietly. Ex-Bruins like the headmaster of a boys' school worried in his camel's hair coat and his curdled expression. The boys Connie ejected and shouted attention to the general mayhem. But Arthur Ar[illegible] with [illegible] ement look. Shux. It takes two to make a feud.

Only once was Uncle seen to rise in episcopal dignity and [illegible] was [illegible] and [illegible] did the [illegible] and make a pair of [illegible] with the [illegible]. He twiddled them hopefully. But Uncle [illegible] the [illegible] down and [illegible] "The Colonel [illegible]."

THAT GIVES YOU A ROUGH IDEA Because only a few seasons back when Connie was at the height of his hallucinations and cutting some especially obnoxious didoes on the Garden ice—sometimes shinnying over the rail and chasing the officials round the rink and sometimes just splitting everybody's eardrums, what did Uncle Art do? Why, he had Col. Conn extracted from his bench and installed in a balcony seat with two stalwart limbs-of-the-law just behind. And every time Connie stood up, two brawny paws rammed him down again, until, between alternate risings and rammings poor Connie was quite worn out.

[illegible] was within legal bounds. Being Uncle Art's [illegible] the C[illegible] had to [illegible]

Court Action May Enter Racing War ¦ Commission Plans To Hold Hearings

By JACK CONWAY

THE BATTLE FOR racing dates in Massachusetts is expected to last into the early part of next year as a result of the 2 to 1 vote of the Racing Commission to go ahead with its public hearings on the applications of Suffolk Downs and Westport. The Suffolk Downs meetings will be held in Boston and in Revere on Thursday, while the Westport meeting is scheduled for Friday at Westport.

Mr. Boston

Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Racing Commission voted to postpone action on the racing dates until Gov.-elect Leverett Saltonstall takes office, while Commissioners Moyse and Fahey, appointed in recent weeks by Governor Hurley, favored going ahead with the commission's original plans.

Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Racing Commission wrote a letter to Gov.-elect Salton- [illegible] a statement from the action of the commission [illegible] would be glad to hear anything he [illegible] racing action he takes office in January.

[illegible] Racing Commission means anything the race [illegible] granted while Governor Hurley is still in office.

A court injunction aimed at the Racing Commission is the only thing that could prevent such a happening. There was some talk today to the effect that the question of racing dates will be aired in the court before they are awarded.

It is pointed out that once racing dates are awarded they cannot be taken away without reason.

[illegible] Racing, however, shows that the [illegible] of a [illegible] has [illegible] word in regard to the [illegible] dates [illegible].

In Texas a [illegible] Governor closed [illegible] track, [illegible] Legislature [illegible] Quarter Circle [illegible] Park and refused to permit racing in that State until a [illegible] was elected [illegible] met with his approval.

A sport [illegible] depends upon a State [illegible] at least a [illegible] State [illegible] nearly [illegible] to [illegible] the wishes of a [illegible].

In the situation in this State, it is possible that the Commission may do a right about face once Saltonstall takes office. If it fails to do so there will probably be an open break between the Governor and the Racing Commission. A legislative act could then change the system under which the commission functions.

Montague in Philippine Open

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 28 (INS)—Maintaining his mysteriousness by flatly refusing to comment on his rumored marriage, John Montague, Los Angeles golfer, was in Manila today planning to enter the Philippines open golf tournament January 6-8.

The marriage report was prompted by receipt of several Christmas cards in Los Angeles from "John and Father Montague."

Father Plunkett, wealthy Beverly Hills woman, has been his close friend for several years.

Howe Twins Inherit Athletic Prowess From Famous Parents

Mother Famous Squash Player

By WALTER KILEY

It's only natural that Betty and Peggy Howe of Weston should grew into tennis stars of the first magnitude. Vivacious both, these 14-year-old schoolgirl twins boast a real sports heritage.

As they swerve and volley and drive away in the current national girls' junior indoor championships at Longwood Covered Courts, they're only following in the footsteps of illustrious parents.

Sturdy Betty and slim Peggy are still in the process of building their court games.

But at this early stage they're unusually well fortified with ideal competitive dispositions, by spirit and enthusiasm and a well rounded background in fundamentals.

These qualities, so essential to athletic achievement, are handdowns from the older generation of Howes.

MOTHER, DAD STARS

Considering the sports prowess of mother and dad, it is only logical to anticipate that the youthful sisters will one day in the near future round out a family of athletes comparable to the Wightmans, the Bundys and the Palfreys, where competition in its many phases are part of living.

Records show that Mrs. George F. Howe, Jr., mother of the twins, is even today rated one of the world's foremost squash players, former national champion, several times state champion, and with many other distinguished titles stretched out over a period of more than a decade.

Mrs. Howe is a notable figure on the country's squash courts. But Daddy Bill is, too.

Bill Howe is everyone's friend at Longwood.

He's the big dynamic figure whose basso profundo roars out "faults" and "outs" from a linesman's chair in championship tourneys at Longwood.

But moving the clock backward to the pre-war period, we find Bill Howe one of the greatest athletes in all Yale history.

He played end and captained the Yale football team. He was captain and intercollegiate swimming champion. He rowed on the Elis' crew. Followed a marvellous war record with citations and honors for bravery being piled up on him.

A lieutenant in the 102d Field Artillery, serving overseas with the famous 26th Division, he arrived home a hero.

They still tell tall stories of his epic deeds, how he rode a gun into action and received the Croix de Guerre.

Bill is a colonel now in the reserve army. He's a great friend of Governor-Elect Leverett Saltonstall. He's a well-to-do broker and plays a lot of mighty fine squash and tennis in his own right, with various titles to prove his ability.

SERVES AS FIRE-EATER

But he still craves action, as witness the fire which recently raged through Weston Country Club.

Bill Howe jumped on the fire wagon and had the first stream of water levelling the blaze.

While the Howe twins are opposites in build and appearance they still have a distinct family resemblance. They both look like their mother and they both look like their dad—which makes it all very confusing.

Betty was victorious in her first round mat h but lost out today to Dorothy Wightman, No. 3 seed.

Bull Curry Battles Donchin

The junior heavyweight wrestling championship may change hands tonight in the feature bout of Sam Price's grappling show at the Arena when Myer "Curly" Donchin, titleholder, meets Bull Curry from Chicago in a two out of three falls tangle.

While Donchin is a favorite and expected to come through with his junior heavyweight crown and title belt intact, anything can happen with the clouting Curry in there throwing punches.

This bout hauls down the curtain on the 1938 grappling season and may do so with a resounding thud, probably developing into the wildest bout of the campaign.

Donchin will be after his sixth straight win. He's been unbeaten since moving into the Arena from N. Y. He's become the No. 1 mat attraction hereabouts.

Donchin tipped over Dropkick Murphy, Manuel Cortez and Fred Bruno, all ex-champions, in quick succession before colliding with Steve Passas, the champion, a bout in which he took the title of the 180 to 200-pound division.

Murphy meets Dick Costello in the semifinal tonight, a one-fall affair to a positive finish. Other bouts will be Jim Spencer vs. John Cady, Frenchy LaBelle vs. Dynamite Joe Dempsey, Tiger Flowers vs. Sandy McDonald and Jack Marshall vs. the ever-colorful and capable Count Otto Von Zuppe from Germany.

Brookline All Stars Open Up Tonight

The Brookline All-Stars open tonight by taking on the Peever Club of Haverhill, Essex County champs at the Brookline gym. This club boasts a victory over the Garfield A. A. of Revere and is considered one of the best clubs in the state.

Madden Girls Gain 3d Round

By WALTER KILEY

LONGWOOD CRICKT CLUB, BROOKLIN, Dec. 28—Helen Bernhard of New York, defending champion, moved into the third round of the NaNtional Junior Girls' Indoor Tennis Championship here this morning with an easy 6—1, 6—3 victory over Polly Kimball of Winchester.

Top seeded and pre-tourney favorite to repeat her 1937 triumph, Helen was at the top of her game and had little trouble downing the Winchester miss.

The Madden sisters of Jamaica Plain, Baba and Sissy, also moved into the third round, with easy wins.

Baba defeated Gilda Ciecone, Newton, 6—1, 6—0, and Sissy, second seeded, trimmed Lois Ladd, Winchester, 6—0, 6—1.

SECOND ROUND SUMMARIES

Helen Bernhard, New York, defeated Polly Kimball, Winchester, 6—1, 6—3.
Dorothy Wightman, Brookline, defeated Betty Howe, Weston, 6—1, 6—1.
Baba Madden, Jamaica Plain, defeated Gilda Ciecone, Newton, 6—1, 6—0.
Sissy Madden, Jamaica Plain, defeated Lois Ladd, Winchester, 6—0, 6—1.
Lilli Lopaus, Garden City, Long Island, defeated Judy Atterbury, Great Neck, 1—6, 7—5, 6—4, 6—4.
Katherine Rubbell, Dedham, defeated Jean Drake, Winchester, 6—2, 6—2, 6—1.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Don McCallister resigned as head football coach at South Carolina; replaced by Rex Enright, backfield coach at Georgia.

THREE YEARS AGO—National Collegiate A. A. adopted resolution favoring full U. S. participation in 1936 Olympics in Germany and re-elected Major John L. Griffith of Chicago as president.

"MORE SNOW IN THE NORTH COUNTRY!" Key ski centers in New Hampshire report an additional fall of the elusive white substance which covered many slopes and high spots alike with a magic white mantle yesterday.

Pinkham Notch, Franconia Notch, Crawford Notch, N. H., and Smugglers Notch, Stowe, Vermont, all were showered with more of the powdery flakes. With a cold wave headed for New England that may bring even more snow to mountain sections, it looks like a grand New Year's week-end is in prospect for skiers.

So wax up your hickorys and tune up on yelling "Track!"

"How should I learn to ski?" This is but one of the many questions with which this writer has been plied recently. There is only one answer to the above question: Go to a good ski school this winter. You will learn more in a few lessons from a qualified instructor than you could by fooling around by yourself all season.

"How long should my skies be, and what kind?" The length of skis is determined by holding the arm above the head, and with a ski upright, the tip should extend to the wrist only. Ridge top hickory skis are considered best, but maple can be used successfully because of its durability.

"What type of harness is best?" It is necessary to use good bindings to aid your skiing. We suggest a low-hitch Bilstein, or for an advanced skier, the Kandahar or Luggi—Cable type is excellent.

Ski Boot Most Essential Part of Good Equipment

"Should I get the best boots?" Absolutely! It is very essential that your ski boots are the best you can afford. Boots are the most important part of equipment. A faulty or cheap boot may move from side to side, or if it softens up, it can slide too far into the toe irons, causing a foot or toe injury.

"Do I need steel edges?" Yes. If you have steel edges on your skis, they will save wear and tear on your boards. Edges are invaluable on hard crust and ice.

And here's an additional item in our list of "Ski Tips": Some people, when purchasing ski clothing or boots for youngsters, have a tendency to buy these articles some sizes larger, figuring that the children are still growing, and can use the equipment for years. This is a mistake, and nothing is really saved.

The youngsters are only uncomfortable in ill-fitting clothes. It is far better to have them fitted properly at the moment so that they can enjoy their things then, and likewise do better in their actual skiing.

January 21 and 22 are the days set for the third annual Mt. Hood Winter Carnival to be held in Melrose, Mass. The leading ski jumpers of New England will soar skywards from the jump, which attracted almost 100,000 people last year.

Moon in Goal

Olympics Bent on Victory

This evening at the Garden the Boston Olympics make another desperate bid to get back on the victory trail, when they face the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts for the second time in three days.

The Harrington men came out of the first Cataract tilt in good physical condition. Bill Splaine was the only injured member. The husky defense star received a cut on his leg which required one stitch to close. Aside from Splaine the squad are sound of limb.

Despite the loss, the clubmen played their best hockey of the season and proved themselves to be on the right road at last. For the first time this winter, the local lads displayed the solid type of body work that lifted them to the heights last year. A repetition of Monday night's play should bring them out on top tonight.

The only change in the Boston line-up for this evening's fray will be the substitution of Tom Moon in the Boston strings. Frazier turned in a beautiful game in the first Shawinigan game, but Moon's showing entitles him to a starting chance.

Lexington Tom is an old hand at the game and can be depended on to give a fine account of himself.

The line-ups:

BOSTON		SHAWINIGAN FALLS
Harris, lw		rw, Proulx
Spain, c		c, Mousette
Guibord, rw		lw, Goulet
Stubbs, ld		rd, Frenette
Splaine, rd		ld, Malte
Moon, g		g, Bellemare

Boston Spares—Smith, Roberts, Emerson, Lay, Martin, Jeremiah, Allen, Desrosiers, Lewis.

Shawinigan Falls Spares—Archambault, Boliveau, Gauthier, Bergeron, Lavoie, Tidromb.

Sonny Wants Main Bout

Just to show that he is serious in his promise to win back the world's wrestling championship, Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, one of the mat's most colorful figures, stamped into the office of Promoter Paul Bowser and demanded a main bout.

"I've beaten everyone you've thrown against me in semi-finals and special bouts," he told Bowser. "I even cracked down Wee Willie Davis, so it's about time I really got started toward the championship. A feature bout or nothing from now on. I don't get anywhere in preliminaries and apparently I'm getting no nearer the title."

Saltonstall Plea Rejected; Race Hearings Go On

As advertised and despite Governor-elect Saltonstall's request for delay, the Massachusetts Racing Commission will start hearings on applications for 1939 racing dates beginning tomorrow afternoon.

At the racing commission office in Beacon street hearings will be held tomorrow afternoon on Suffolk Downs dates.

In the evening the commission will hold a hearing at Revere City Hall relative to the Revere dog track.

HEARING IN WESTPORT

Friday night the commission will move to Westport Town Hall for a scheduled hearing on the proposed new horse track in that community.

Governor-elect Saltonstall had asked the commission to postpone action until he assumes office on January 5.

And Chairman Charles F. Connors, although out-voted two-to-one in his request to respect the wishes of the governor-elect, wrote Saltonstall as follows:

UPSETS SEE

"Please be assured that in the event you, for any reason, feel that the commission should reconsider its action, your wishes will be respected."

Saltonstall has pointed out that it will be a waste of time to reach decisions that will automatically upset as soon as he takes charge.

Tunney Sees Long Reign For Louis

Joe Louis, world heavyweight titleholder, received a high compliment from Gene Tunney, former champion, who spoke at the annual Father and Sons athletic night at the Temple Chabei Shalom.

"Never in the history of boxing has there been a greater fighter at the age of 21 than Joe Louis," said Gene.

"It seems unlikely that Joe will be beaten for several years to come. Right now he is in his prime and should hold that peak until around 30.

"Lou Nova appears to be the only threat to Louis' crown but he must be brought along slowly and carefully. Lou seems to be heavily muscled for fighting but he hits hard and needs only experience to tangle eventually with Louis for the heavyweight title."

A gold watch was presented the retired undefeated champion by Henry Penn, president of the brotherhood.

Dodgers Ride With Mungo

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Brooklyn baseball club has made the approach of the new year official by issuing its annual announcement that Van Lingle Mungo, the big fireball pitcher with the ailing arm and the sultry disposition, will not be sold or traded "because we expect him to win 20 games for us next season."

This statement, delivered solemnly about this time of year by each succeeding Brooklyn manager, is becoming a part of the language, like the Gettysburg address.

Nobody seems to know why the Dodgers feel this way about Mungo, for in eight successive seasons at Ebbets Field he has been only an expensive "promise." But they do.

CUBS BID $75,000

Probably it's because Mungo is a fast-ball pitcher. When his arm feels right and he isn't nursing a grudge against one or more of his teammates, Mungo is tremendously fast—"almost as fast as Johnson."

Managers don't like to let a real speedballer ever get away from them.

Every other club in the National League has at one time or another tried to buy or trade for Mungo, and some of the offers have been fantastic.

Just a year ago the Chicago Cubs offered $75,000 and four players for the mountain boy. Brooklyn, as always, said no. They held on to their "ace," and he won four games for them and lost 11.

Mungo's salary for the last several years has been popularly reported at $15,000, and he has been a chronic holdout. He probably will be able to demand and get as much next spring, even though there is no guarantee his pitching wing will be in shape.

It's a gamble the Brooklyn club has to take. Mungo still is the team's only hope of climbing to the first division. Here's Mungo's big league won and lost record:

1931—3-1; 1932—13-11; 1933—16-15; 1934—18-16; 1935—16-10; 1936—18-19; 1937—8-11; 1938—4-11. Total, won 97, lost 94.

PRIMA DONNA

Since 1936, when his losses began outnumbering his victories, Mungo's temper has been growing progressively shorter.

Picking him up on the opening day of the 1936 race, it is noted he observed the occasion by having a fist fight with Dick Bartell and being fined $25. Thereafter the more notable entries in his diary are:

June 10, 1936—Quits Dodgers without permission and asks to be traded, charging teammates fail to support him.

June 11, 1935—Fined $200 and suspended indefinitely; demands new contract calling for more money. (Doesn't get it).

June 25, 1936—Equals major league record by fanning seven Cincinnati batters in succession.

May 22, 1937—Fined $1000 and suspended three days for before-dawn fight with his teammate, Jim Bucher.

Aug. 28, 1937—Suspended indefinitely without pay by Manager Burleigh Grimes for "insubordination." Said Grimes: "A specialist prescribed diathermic treatments for his arm, but Mungo always says he's too busy to take them."

Jan. 31, 1938—General Manager MacPhail announces Brooklyn will not trade or sell Mungo this year.

Apr. 17, 1938—MacPhail says: "I told Branch Rickey of the Cardinals and I'll tell all the other fellows that we don't intend to let Mungo go."

SHIFT TO MULCAHY

At the recent baseball meeting here very little was heard about Mungo, and Brooklyn club officials were not routed out of their beds a single time to deny that they were trading him to the Giants for Mel Ott, Harry Danning and $100,000.

Either the other managers have given up on obtaining the Pride of Flatbush or they have given up on Mungo. Most of them now are trying to buy Hugh Mulcahy, who won 10 and lost 20 for the Phils last year.

Philly Awarded National Open

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 (AP)—The 1939 National Open Golf championship probably will be played on a par 69 course for the first time in history, Melville Curtis, chairman of the Philadelphia Country Club golf committee, announced.

The change from par 71 must be approved by the United States Golf Association before it will become effective, Curtis said.

McCarthy, Vandy, Giles Win Awards

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28 (INS)—Baseball's No. 1 men of the year, annually chosen by the Sporting News, today were announced as Warren O. Giles, vice-president and general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, among the major executives; Joseph V. McCarthy, pilot of the New York Yankees, among the big league managers, and Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati Reds, among the major league players.

McCarthy's citation is the second in three years, as is Vander Meer's. But the Cincinnati hurler two years ago was named as outstanding among the minor league players.

Joe McCarthy

Among the minors, Lou McKenna, secretary and business manager of the St. Paul American Association, won the accolade for an executive, Paul Richards of the Atlanta Southern Association Club for a manager and Fred Hutchinson, Seattle Pacific Coast League pitcher recently purchased by the Detroit Tigers, as the outstanding player of 1938.

Winning honorable mention were:

Major league executives: Larry MacPhail, vice-president, Brooklyn Dodgers; Philip K. Wrigley, president of the Chicago Cubs, and Connie Mack, president-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Major league managers: Billi McKechnie, Cincinnati Reds, who won the award while with the Boston Bees, in 1937; Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cubs, and Oscar Vitt, Cleveland Indians.

Stay Retired, Jim Braddock

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—That "sporting" in the 20th Century Sporting Club's monicker will sound phoney if the organization lures the venerable Jim Braddock back to the ring against young Lou Nova—the match seems likely.

Budge Aspires For Pro Crown

Donald Budge of Oakland vs. Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena. This is the match which the sports world has been waiting for since "Donald the Red" blasted his way thru the world's greatest amateur tournaments, topping a year of unprecedented successes by sweeping through the field at Forest Hills to his second National Singles crown.

Having annexed every available amateur title, it was but natural that Budge should look around for new worlds to conquer, and should seek to lift the professional diadem from the brow of the titleholder, Ellsworth Vines, who has dominated the professional game since he first entered its rank in 1933.

Sports fans in New England will have an opportunity of seeing this tennis "world's series" when Budge and Vines meet at the Boston Garden, January 4.

Speed is the keynote of Budge's attack. Possessing a powerful service, a backhand packing terrific pace and control, and a keen sense of timing, the flashing torch of the tennis courts believes, like Jack Dempsey, that the best defense is a good offense.

Open Course Cut to Par 69

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—The United States Golf Association said today that the plan of the Philadelphia Country Club, site of the 1939 U. S. open championship, to change par for its Spring Mill course from 71 to 69, already had received the approval of the U. S. G. A. championship committee, headed by Harold W. Pierce of Boston.

Country Club officials announced they intended to make the 479-yard eighth hole and the 480-yard 12th par 4s, instead of par 5's. Next year's open will be the first ever played on a par 69 course.

Duke Co-Captain Out With Injury

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 28 (INS)—Tiger Dan Hill—Duke's great center and co-captain, who was one of the big reasons why some fans picked the Blue Devils over Troy on January 2, suffered a back injury during practice that may keep him out of the Rose Bowl game, it was disclosed today.

A taxi was called to transport Hill from the field.

It was denied that Hill had been taken to a hospital, and Duke attaches stated after an examination Hill had been ordered to "take it easy" for a couple of days.

Hill, himself, was confident of playing in the Rose Bowl game.

Ancil Hoffman, Max Baer's "brain," is speedily dickering the dancing Baer out of a nova setup . . . The trend toward Braddock is a line on the smelly heavyweight situation. Why Braddock? He admits to 33, has been out of the ring for nearly a year and has only a stout heart to recommend him . . . Why not Johnny Paycheck, the dilligent Iowan, or Pat Comiskey? . . . If Nova is as good as some think he should take them; if not, it's time the public found out before he's thrown in with Louis.
